

I think the law should stand as is. It is an invasion of privacy for telemarketers to call people at home. How do you separate the outright con and scam artists from honest businesses. Since this can't be done, shut them all off.